Introduction

"There are stars whose radiance is visible on earth though they have long been extinct. There are people whose brilliance continues to light the world though they are no longer among the living. These lights are particularly bright when the night is dark." -- Hannah Senesh

This report has been written to introduce you to the concepts of astrology and how to get started with a child's natal chart. Astrology is a complex and meaningful science which takes years to study and apply successfully; however, we would like to whet your appetite with this report, and encourage you to deepen your understanding through other means.

Astrology is a study of the connection between planets and life on Earth. It is based on a concept that energy patterns form between other planets and Earth and that these energies affect our lives as individuals and communities.

An astrological chart, also known as a horoscope, natal chart, or birth chart, records the relationship between the planets and the signs of the Zodiac. Charts can be calculated for the birth of a person, a community, an event or anything that seems momentous. The horoscope is as individual and unique as a fingerprint.

The aim of this report is to act as a guide for parents and mentors of children. All parents want the best for their children. We want our children to live happy and fulfilled lives. All mentors and teachers would like to see children reach their full potential. This can be achieved by recognising and accepting each child's individual gifts and weaknesses. In accepting these traits, we can help our children overcome obstacles and provide them with as many opportunities as possible to develop their talents.

The journey from babyhood to adulthood is full of joys and challenges. This report is intended to help parents and mentors to support and encourage their children through the difficult times and to provide them with as much love and joy as possible. Then childhood can become a true foundation for a rewarding and joyful adult life. Both children and their parents can be satisfied with a strong and healthy emotional bond, happy memories and many possibilities for future success.

When using these interpretations, please bear in mind that, inevitably, every chart will contain some contradictory influences and, as a result, certain interpretations of different items in the same chart may seem difficult to reconcile. However, this may still be an accurate reflection of a child's chart, as it is likely that any child will experience conflicting desires, events and circumstances in their life. Usually it is the responsibility of an astrologer to synthesise these apparent contradictions in order to present a cohesive and meaningful interpretation of the dilemmas of the chart. Any advice given is meant to be an aid and the author and publisher accept no liability for any adverse effects of this report.

Family and Friends

"Being deeply loved by someone gives you strength while loving someone deeply gives you courage."

-- Lao Tso

The Moon

The Moon tells you about your children's emotional nature and basic needs. It is also the key to how they experience intimacy in relationships. The Moon tells you about your children's relationship with their mother, how they experience their mother's nurturing. As a result it can also give you insights on how to best nurture your children as babies and maturing young adults. When a child feels safe and has their basic needs met, they are better able to achieve their goals later in life.

The Moon is in Capricorn

Baby Prince George needs to feel secure in his environment. For this reason a settled and structured routine is advisable. Prince George is comforted by familiar and safe surroundings and may react adversely to spontaneous activities. A shy or reserved child, Prince George spends hours closely observing adults and consequently imitating their actions and behaviour. For this reason, parents do well to approach Prince George with reason and temperance, rather than with strong emotions.

Prince George's mentors, particularly his mother or grandmother, do well to enlist Prince George's help in daily chores. This child is eager to help loved ones, as long as he can see the reasons for co-operating. Young Prince George wants to learn as much as possible to enable him to grow up as soon as possible. Prince George may be a loner, preferring his own company or the company of adults, rather than socialising with peers. Parents discover a stubborn side to Prince George's nature if they try to introduce varied and spontaneous activities. Prince George is also sensitive to criticism. He responds well to discipline as long as it is fair and consistent.

Patience and support from adult loved ones go a long way to supporting this sensible and stable young person. Prince George finds comfort in building blocks, model sets, or any toy that has a useful purpose. Prince George may enjoy receiving his own watch or clock at a young age. It is also possible that a pet can provide a loving and welcoming outlet for suppressed love and emotions.

The Moon is in the 2nd House

It is important to create a comfortable environment for Prince George. He needs to be surrounded with familiar and pleasing decor and toys. As a baby Prince George enjoys being kept snug and cozy. Growing up he enjoys a pleasant and warm environment and a close bond with his mother, or a caring mother figure. Prince George's mother, or a female mentor, plays a significant role in helping him feel safe in the world. Although it is likely that this significant woman is Prince George's mother, she could also be a grandmother, female sibling, favourite aunt, or any other female mentor.

Familiar people, toys and routines help young Prince George develop a strong sense of self-esteem and emotional security. When Prince George is feeling secure he is a happy-go-lucky child, willing to leave his mother's side and explore his surroundings. Feeling well loved and cared for, Prince George shares his toys and other possessions. However, Prince George is less likely to be sociable, or share toys, when he feels insecure. He is also likely to be more possessive of his mother if feeling anxious.

Of course the ability to share toys also depends on the sign of Prince George's Moon. A child with a Moon in the sign of Aries, Sagittarius, Pisces, Libra, Gemini or Aquarius is more likely to want to share his possessions with other children. However, a child with a Moon in Cancer, Scorpio, Taurus, Virgo, Capricorn or Leo is less likely to want to share their toys. Parents could allow Prince George to keep some of his most precious items out of other children's way, while encouraging him to share some of his other things. It is also possible that young Prince George forms an attachment to a particular toy, perhaps a cuddly toy or security blanket. It is essential that toys and possessions are not given in place of quality time and affection. Otherwise Prince George may learn to attach too much importance to material things. On the other hand, in a warm and loving home, Prince George quickly develops his own set of values, which stands him in good stead for the rest of his life.

Venus

The planet Venus describes your children's personal relationships with family and friends. Like a Moon, Venus is important in describing how your child prefers to interact. This planet also gives vital information about your child's receptivity to love. This is important because a child feels loved in different ways. Some children feel cherished when loved ones are paying them lots of attention, whereas others feel most loved when given the freedom to go their separate ways. Therefore gaining an understanding of the planet Venus in your child's chart can give you insights into how to encourage rewarding relationships with family and friends.

Venus is in Virgo

Prince George is a keen observer of human relationships. An intelligent child, Prince George likes to keep his room in order and is eager to help around the house. However, he has difficulty expressing love and affection. Prince George does care about his loved ones, but struggles to communicate his innermost feelings. The problem is that Prince George is critical of himself and therefore believes that others are critical too. Prince George is extremely sensitive to any disapproval expressed by friends and family. As a result Prince George may have problems at playgroups, pre-school and school. He copes well with the academic side of school but is shy. Prince George lags behind in social situations, preferring to read a book alone rather than play with other children. Prince George is a perfectionist, with high expectations of himself and others. Of course, the extent of Prince George's shyness depends on other aspects of his birth chart. He is a highly intelligent child and responds well to reason. It is simply that parents and mentors need to encourage Prince George to relax and enjoy the company of other children, so that he can benefit from warm and loving relationships. Prince George can be encouraged to relate to one or two special friends in a safe environment at home or in the local neighbourhood. He benefits from playing games with one or two friends, including board or card games, or pretending to be doctors and nurses or holding pretend tea parties. This is Prince George's way of learning social skills.

Venus is in the 9th House

Prince George has a strong sense of social justice, which can be apparent from a young age. Prince George is aware of all that is wrong and right in the world because he wants everyone to live in harmony. Prince George likes to relate to children and adults from all walks of life and cannot understand racial or religious intolerance. Race and religion are no barrier for young Prince George. In fact he is likely to be drawn to interacting with peers and mentors from different races and religions, fascinated by the cultural differences. In other words Prince George enjoys unusual friends and is likely to be very loyal to these friends. Parents need to ensure that Prince George is permitted to enjoy a variety of social influences. He may rebel against restrictions or social stigmas. Young Prince George may also surprise loved ones by asking to attend an unusual religious or cultural event. This may even involve travelling to a foreign country. He is curious to understand what makes people different and so it is best to give him the freedom to explore within reasonable limits.

Prince George also loves art, music, ballet and theatre, particularly creative works from other cultures. He may have a gift for one of these arts. His enthusiasm for pursuing the talent as more than a hobby depends on other aspects of his birth chart. The sign of Venus can also influence Prince George's choice of pastimes. If his Venus is in the signs of Aries or Sagittarius, then he may show enthusiasm and talent for sport. Venus in the sign of Sagittarius can also depict a love of philosophy, religion and travel. Venus in the signs of Leo, Libra, Taurus, or Pisces emphasises Prince George's sensitivity to the fine arts and music, as well as the possibility of an artistic talent. Venus in the sign of Libra can also mean a love of diplomacy. If Venus is in the sign of Scorpio or Virgo then Prince George may enjoy academic research or science. Venus in the signs of Gemini or Aquarius may depict a love of ideas, philosophy and travel whereas Venus in the sign of Cancer or Capricorn may be less adventurous. Anthropology, archaeology, theology, law, and sociology are likely topics of interest for the maturing Prince George.

Talents and Schooling

"Dance like no one is watching. Sing like no one is listening. Love like you've never been hurt and live like it's heaven on Earth." -- Mark Twain

The Sun

The Sun represents your child's identity. It describes your child's basic personality traits and their talents. It also tells you how your children think of themselves; how they need to express themselves; how they need to shine in their lives; how they feel alive. It is the centre of a child's self-expression. The Sun can also tell us about a child's father.

The Sun is in Cancer

The family nest plays an important role in the life of a Cancer Sun sign child. Prince George enjoys interacting with family members, particularly those with a gentle and loving approach. In fact it's likely that extended family members play an important role in supporting Prince George during babyhood, childhood and perhaps even in his adult life. Prince George's father may also play a prominent nurturing role in his life. Prince George is a sensitive child. If allowed to develop in a safe and nurturing environment, Prince George blossoms and develops a talent for caring for other people. However, if Prince George does not feel safe in his environment, he can become quiet, and fearful. For instance, leaving the warmth and safety of home to start school can be somewhat threatening for Prince George. At these times Prince George needs extra support from loved ones. When upset Prince George may withdraw into a world of his own.

Prince George needs to be encouraged to express his feelings in an appropriate manner, while discouraged from sulking behaviour. This, of course, does depend rather heavily on Prince George's Moon sign. A fiery or air Moon enables Prince George to express his feelings, whereas a watery or earth Moon may emphasise his tendency to withdraw. Either way loved ones enhance Prince George's young life enabling him to achieve his goals. Prince George values a loving family, and strives to create a warm and safe environment for loved ones throughout his life. This talent is displayed in whatever path he chooses.

The Sun is in the 8th House

Some babies are born looking wise. It is almost as if they have come from a place of greater knowledge. Prince George is such a baby. In fact he is a wise little person. Prince George is sensitive to the emotional undercurrents of the adult world, and gains a real understanding of human emotions from a young age. Sometimes this understanding is gained through a family crisis, which is painful but provides deeper insights. Often it is simply that Prince George is an intuitive child, sensing how those around him feel. This can be an uncomfortable phenomenon for adults who do not like emotional scenes. Death and sex may be considered private by some adults. However, they are a source of fascination for Prince George. He needs to be taught to respect other people's limits, while at the same time respecting his own abilities to see beneath the surface. He needs to be encouraged to listen to his own heart and to talk openly about his feelings. This talent for seeing beyond the facade could be utilised later in life in work as a psychologist, counsellor, researcher, journalist or strategist or even to gain an understanding of economic and marketing trends. These are just some examples of the positive ways in which Prince George's talent can be directed. This resourceful child is bound to have ideas of his own.

Mercury

The planet Mercury describes your children's intellectual abilities. The sign and placement of Mercury can describe whether or not your child finds it easy to concentrate at school. Your child may be a daydreamer or have great concentration. Your child may be shy or interact easily with other people. Either way it is possible to boost your child's self-esteem by choosing study methods and schooling that suits their needs rather than forcing them to fit into an alien environment. Gaining an understanding of the planet Mercury can help in these matters.

Mercury is in Cancer

Prince George is a sensitive child, very responsive to his immediate environment. If all is well with his loved ones then Prince George is comfortable. However, if there is some emotional tension, then young Prince George is also tense and unable to concentrate on his own activities. If there is conflict at home then Prince George is likely to be unsettled, whether at home or at school. In other words, loved ones influence Prince George's ability to focus on his own thoughts and tasks, as well as his resolutions. Therefore, he needs a lot of encouragement to learn to disconnect and to make his own decisions with careful thought. This is a child who lets his heart rule his head. This is not necessarily a negative trait, but does mean that he needs patience, not criticism when it comes to learning new tasks and life skills.

Some tasks, such as cooking and caring for a pet, come easily to young Prince George. However, academic topics are more of a challenge. Prince George enjoys learning through story telling and benefits greatly from legends, fairy-tales, and myths. He also has a talent for creating his own stories, and may even have a talent for painting or creative drawing. Any creative activity is of great benefit for young Prince George as an outlet for expression of any pent-up emotions. Prince George's sensitivity also means that he has a talent for interacting with loved ones, understanding their needs and wishes. Prince George is a good listener. This is quite a skill for one so young. Parents and mentors need to ensure that Prince George is given the freedom to concentrate on his own interests, rather than caring for other people.

Mercury is in the 8th House

Prince George is an insightful child. From a young age he seems to understand the hidden side of things. This can range from the more esoteric side of life such as a deep understanding of human nature to the more mundane such as how a gadget has been constructed. On the more arcane level Prince George is likely to be sensitive to any births or deaths in the family. Therefore parents and friends need to support young Prince George, telling him the truth and answering questions as truthfully as possible. These questions could be quite challenging such as "Where did my little cat go when she died?" or "What happens to people when they die?". He develops compassion at a young age.

On a more mundane level parents and mentors need to be available to help Prince George in daily tasks. This is a child who enjoys mystery books, model kits, microscopes, handyman tools, having his own garden plot and other hobbies that help him more fully understand the cycles of life. His enquiring mind needs to be occupied, because Prince George is not likely to dally in inconsequential matters. For this reason he needs to attend a school that encourages questions and individual research.

Goals

"The future belongs to those who believe in the beauty of their dreams." -- Eleanor Roosevelt

The Ascendant

The Ascendant, or Rising Sign as it's sometimes called, is considered to be an important component of an astrology chart. Ancient astrologers believed that the Ascendant depicted a person's primary motivation. Some believed that it was one of the links to discovering what makes a person happy. It could be said that when we're accomplishing our primary motivation then we're happy. By gaining knowledge of a child's Ascendant and discovering this child's primary motivation in life, parents and mentors can then help them achieve their goals. Caring adults can encourage the child with love and support. In turn your child experiences a sense of happiness and fulfilment.

The Ascendant is in Scorpio

Prince George is likely to wait until he feels comfortable before pursuing his goals in life. He is also likely to depend on other people to take the initiative. Scorpio is a fixed sign denoting fixity of purpose, resolution, self-reliance and independence. However, it is also a Water sign indicating that feelings play a strong role in Prince George's ability to achieve his goals. Prince George has strong feelings. Even as a baby Prince George wants lots of comfort and close contact with his parents, particularly his mother. Prince George particularly benefits from the close contact of breastfeeding as a baby.

Prince George is a child with hidden depths. He is shrewd, resourceful, perceptive, secretive, proud, and reserved. In his own quiet way Prince George is determined to have his own way, and may resort to underhanded methods of achieving his goals. Parents need to encourage Prince George to express his feelings, while also setting clear and fair rules of behaviour. Prince George needs to be taught that integrity is important in life, that his strong will is best applied to achieving positive results.

Mars

Ambition and drive, like many traits, can be powerful positive forces in your children's lives, helping them achieve their dreams. Too much ambition can hinder your child's ability to collaborate. On the other hand, without motivation your child may not be able to establish a healthy sense of self and successfully leave home and family. Studying Mars, the planet of drive and energy, assists parents and mentors. Mars describes vitality in your child's birth chart. If our children are free to pursue their own dreams and ambitions, their joie de vivre is a wonderful thing to see. By understanding the placement of Mars in your child's chart, you can help support their goals. You gain insight into whether or not your child lacks motivation in certain areas and why. You can also see if your child has an excess of passion. As a result you can either patiently try to motivate your child, or you can provide plenty of stimulation and direction.

Mars is in Cancer

The astrological placement of the planet Mars in the sign of Cancer is not an easy one for young Prince George. The fiery energy of Mars is a strange mix with the watery energy of the sign of Cancer. In other words the more upset Prince George feels about something, the harder he finds it to express himself or to take action. Therefore, Prince George is easily frustrated when trying to achieve his goals. Frustration often results in tears. He needs to be in the right mood before tackling most tasks.

Self-confidence plays a major role in Prince George's ability to achieve his goals. If pushed to do something he doesn't want to do then he may dig in his heels or resort to passive behaviour. He seems to lack motivation, more likely to withdraw into a brooding silence rather than pursue his talents. Parents and mentors are probably best advised to leave young Prince George alone to sort through his strong feelings, waiting for an opportune moment before approaching him. Anyone who tries to provoke little Prince George into action when he is really upset is likely to encounter resistance. Prince George can switch from sulking to tears very easily. The best approach is to gently encourage Prince George to apply reason to unsettling situations. Prince George needs to learn that neither sulking nor tantrums ultimately serve anyone's purpose. Of course young Prince George is simply trying to protect himself from further upset; however, he needs to be gently taught to positively express his feelings and how to assert his own rights.

Although Prince George has some trouble following through on his own goals, he is adept at fighting on the behalf of loved ones. He is a real fighter when it comes to looking after younger children, pets, anyone who he loves or anything that he is passionate about. With encouragement Prince George learns to direct his emotions in to activities that are emotionally satisfying. He is likely to enjoy activities such as swimming, cooking, sports fishing, sailing and starting his own collection. He may also be motivated, from a young age, to fight for causes such as environmental ones.

Mars is in the 8th House

As a young child Prince George seems to attract gifts from many different sources. It seems as if young Prince George is blessed with abundance. This, of course, has many benefits. Prince George learns to use resources wisely from a young age, gaining confidence in his ability to be successful in the material world. Savings and investments feature early in Prince George's life. He has a strong drive to learn about monetary cycles, outstripping his peers in these valuable lessons. However, there are also some hazards associated with this placement of Mars. As he grows older, Prince George could become greedy, expecting more and more material gifts from loved ones. His money making enterprises could become somewhat obsessive. He also has difficulty sharing his resources with other children. Peers can be jealous, recognising that Prince George's desire to accumulate money and goods can sometimes come at the expense of friendships. The ideal way to circumvent these potential pitfalls is to teach young Prince George about spiritual values. He needs to learn the value of sharing intimate moments with loved ones or enjoying the gifts of nature. As a result young Prince George can become a true advocate for wise use of the world's resources. Nevertheless he still possesses the uncanny ability to attract material blessings from other people.

Childhood Journey

"Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm." -- Ralph Waldo Emerson

Wouldn't it be ideal if we could isolate one trait in our personalities, capture it in a glass for observation and dissection? Of course this is not possible. Neither is it possible for us to isolate one part of a birth chart. The different aspects of our children's birth charts intermingle in a complex manner to make the little person that we know and love. However, it is possible for us to influence the development of our children, to support them in their journey. The aim of this section is to give vital clues for parents and mentors on how to guide, but not coerce, the development of your child.

Saturn is Square The Moon

Prince George needs lots of love and affection. He is a sensitive child, seemingly fated to struggle with at least one adversity in his young life. This could start when Prince George is a baby. Perhaps he is born during a difficult time for either his mother or father, resulting in a lack of parental support. While this is understandable it is also emotionally painful for young Prince George. On the other hand it is possible that Prince George is a fretful baby, failing to thrive for a short period of time. Another possibility is that Prince George sails through babyhood, but as a young child the family suffers a setback that has a serious effect on young Prince George. While this may be of some concern to parents, most challenges in life have a positive outcome. Whatever the challenging circumstances, young Prince George initially may feel insecure in his little world, despite the best parental intentions. Much of this depends on other influences in Prince George's birth chart.

With other positive influences, Prince George may be quietly confident and somewhat serious. Either way a firm and loving hand and a warm environment can help Prince George overcome adversity and consequently feel secure and gain confidence. Criticism is to be avoided at all costs, because Prince George is more sensitive to harsh words than other children. Instead, parents need to do all that they can to boost Prince George's self-esteem so that he can mature into a confident adult. As Prince George matures, he overcomes adversity. He learns the advantages of hard work and self-discipline. The positive side to early-life difficulties is that Prince George has the wisdom of experience, and outstrips other children in his achievements. This combination of the planet Saturn and the Moon is an important one in astrology. In some cases, it simply acts to tone down other influences in a child's birth chart. For instance, a fiery child may seem more introverted under this influence. For a full explanation of the likely outcome of this combination it is best to visit a qualified astrologer.

Saturn is Square The Sun

Prince George's relationship with his father plays an integral role in his life, probably from the moment of birth. It is even possible that young Prince George has been named after his father or the father's family's name, or a close friend of his father, or that his father chose his name. Hence the bond starts at birth. This bond can be a positive one in the long term; however, it is possible that Prince George's father is initially somewhat strict or oppressive. Perhaps he feels protective of young Prince George, not realising that all young people need freedom to explore. Or perhaps he is simply a disciplinarian with difficulty expressing the love that is in his heart. Either way Prince George is likely to feel limited in his self-expression as a child, particularly before the age of 14. As a result his self-esteem could suffer. He may be a serious and somewhat shy child. It is important that Prince George's father, or father figure's in his life express a lot of praise and affection to help balance the discipline. This way Prince George grows into a well-balanced young person, secure in the knowledge of his ability to achieve his goals with the support of important men in his life. He will have the self-discipline to succeed. In some cases it is not Prince George's father that takes this stern role, but another adult male in his life. Therefore all of the above would apply to this man, not his father. It is also possible that problems can be experienced early in life because of Prince George's relationship with his father or a father figure. If this is the case then it is likely that Prince George will face these challenges, grow in wisdom and achieve success later in life, particularly from the age of 29 years.

Jupiter is Conjunct Mercury

Prince George is an explorer. As soon as he can crawl and walk, he is eager to take off and investigate his surroundings. He enjoys learning new things. Prince George has an inquisitive mind and responds well to most teaching methods. Prince George's parents and mentors are easily able to influence him through introducing fun and educational activities. These could include books, DVDs, computer games and visits to the library or cinema for the more introverted child. If Prince George is more extroverted then parents and mentors could introduce visits to educational institutions such as museums, art galleries, and children's hands-on centres or trips to the park or beach. Prince George also benefits from social visits to friends and family members.

Prince George's parents' and mentors' main task is to think up new and fascinating ideas to assist his development. He needs little encouragement to study at school, enjoying his teachers and peers. Prince George is likely to excel at most school subjects, but may be particularly drawn to studying languages, geography, religious education, biology, sports, and law. In conclusion this combination of the positive planet Jupiter with the planet Mercury is a most fortunate influence in helping Prince George cope with his own stages of development and life in general.

Uranus is Square Mercury

Prince George is a little rebel. He is intelligent, quick to grasp concepts and to make up his mind. Once his mind is made up, he is unlikely to change it. Prince George is wilful. This is a challenge for parents and mentors because little Prince George can be quite uncooperative.

Even as a youngster Prince George is opinionated and prone to argue rather than listen to adult advice. Prince George needs to learn by experience and is constantly testing limits. Parents and mentors can influence Prince George positively by making sure that all rules are fair and consistent. Prince George also needs to be given plenty of freedom to explore his environment and learn new activities within safe boundaries. Prince George is likely to act before he thinks of the consequence. His rash behaviour can get him into all sorts of trouble. He does not respond well to physical discipline. Parents would be advised to try innovative discipline approaches such as having some quiet time in his room. Prince George soon misses the stimulation of other people's company and household occurrences. He is more likely to rebel against authoritarian parenting methods of his father, or a father figure.

Prince George does well at school in a kind of erratic manner. Left to his own devices, he can quickly rise to the top of the class. However, he can also easily plummet once he loses interest or if he clashes with a teacher. Plenty of patience is needed to help young Prince George overcome his wilful ways and to learn to consider other people.

Pluto is Opposite Mercury

Prince George is an insightful child who likes to understand what motivates people. Rather than enjoying learning things for the sake of trying something new, Prince George likes to pull them apart and discover what makes them work. This can include anything such as dismantling a complex mechanical toy or simply pulling the head off a much beloved doll to see what is underneath. It can also include asking embarrassing questions of family members in order to understand a loved one's motives. Prince George is not trying to be difficult, although his methods of learning are a little unusual. He merely wants to understand all things hidden.

Prince George needs to be encouraged to explore his environment; even if he does have unusual methods at time. He is sensitive to criticism and easily feels rejected if his parents or mentors express disapproval. This can result in a lack of self-assurance. Prince George is scared to try new things for fear of being chastised. Therefore parents and mentors need to encourage Prince George's endeavours by teaching him in a direct and forthright manner. Prince George does not respond well to coercion or force. He also challenges any untruths. Prince George comprehends hidden meanings and responds best to the truth. Prince George may also appreciate toys and activities that can be researched, engineered and constructed. Parents and mentors need to ensure that Prince George's entry into school is as smooth as possible, perhaps even explaining to teachers in advance that Prince George is a serious and unique student. Prince George needs to be protected from harsh teachers because he is likely to clash. He needs tolerant teachers who can successfully avoid a clash of wills. With the right direction, Prince George is a potent force.

Neptune is Opposite Venus

Prince George is imaginative and creative but has difficulty expressing himself. His parents need to be a source of comfort and support as young Prince George develops, as well as inspiring him to find his passion. He is a sensitive soul in a harsh world, and needs help in practical matters. Prince George is happiest when spending time with loved ones or when absorbed in a creative project. He adores passing time with family and friends, but is particularly drawn to his mother or grandmother. He yearns to spend as much time as possible with his mother. At times he is able to enjoy such quality time, but the demands of a daily schedule and mother's responsibilities means that Prince George is sometimes disappointed. He needs to be taught about realistic expectations. Otherwise he grows up with unrealistic expectations of loved ones. Prince George can be encouraged to help with household chores, while being given plenty of time to develop his imagination with books to read and outings.

Prince George delights in escaping outdoors on nature trips such as visits to the park and the beach. He also enjoys reading stories about fairies, goblins, dragons and other such mythical beings. In fact Prince George is delighted by any activity that enables him to visit imaginary realms. Parents and mentors also need to find some positive outlets for Prince George's imagination and talents. Art, music, dance, and the theatre may prove to be highly beneficial. History, religion, metaphysics, photography and philanthropy may also appeal to the maturing Prince George. At times young Prince George may appear to be a little lost soul, but parents need not worry. As Prince George matures and discovers his true passion, he shines.

Jupiter is Conjunct Mars

Prince George is self-confident and active, with a seemingly endless supply of energy. He is eager to take part in most activities and has plenty of initiative and courage. He knows what he wants and how to achieve his desires. A born leader, Prince George also shows his playmates how to start and complete projects. Adults notice that Prince George is likely to excel in leadership roles and business later in his life. He enjoys playing active games and can often be found outdoors in rain or shine. His natural optimism and sunny nature seems to attract positive attention wherever he goes. Sometimes Prince George goes a little overboard in his efforts to achieve his goals, but this is a minor problem. Parents need do little to encourage Prince George through his various stages of childhood, but rather need only offer a steadying hand or an occasional word of advice. Prince George may enjoy an active pet to accompany him on his various antics. He may also benefit from joining a sports team as an outlet for his abundant stamina.

Saturn is Trine Mars

Young Prince George knows how to work and achieve. He has a serious side to his nature that is obvious from a young age. This is because safety and peace of mind play an important role in Prince George's childhood development. He needs to feel secure and is likely to play his part in achieving a sense of accomplishment and security. While other children are out playing Prince George is often at work. He is organised, hard working and honest with an ability to work methodically towards his goals. This is quite unusual in a young child. It is important for parents to ensure that Prince George is working to achieve his own desires rather than taking responsibility for others in the family. There is a temptation for less responsible members of the family to rely on young Prince George. Parents, in particular his father, need to encourage Prince George to have fun. Prince George is a practical child and may find it difficult to be frivolous and playful.

It is important that young Prince George is able to enjoy the carefree side of childhood. The more support that he receives from his father, or an important father figure, the easier Prince George finds to adjust to the different stages of childhood development. He may achieve a prominent position in his career later in life or prove adept in running his own business later in life.

Neptune is Trine Mars

The combination of the planets Mars and Neptune indicates a sensitive child, a slow learner and a youngster who is more likely to learn by intuition rather than by rote. As a result it may take Prince George a little longer than other children to find his direction in life, but he is likely to have a real talent in one or more areas of life. Therefore he needs plenty of support, patience and as many opportunities to try different activities. This is one time when it is appropriate for a child to be given permission to end an activity that is not satisfying. Commitment comes later in life, once Prince George has found his true passion. It is possible that young Prince George is a child prodigy displaying a talent for music, art, dance, acting or even swimming, diving or skiing at a young age. However, once again structured activities and enforced discipline are unlikely to yield results. Give little Prince George his freedom, where practicable, to follow his own heart.

It is possible that Prince George's father plays a role in directing his life, either through his absence or by inspiring him with his own talents. It is also possible that Prince George has a close relationship with a grandmother, who introduces him to new and different projects. Either way Prince George is not likely to follow a conventional path. He needs lots of reassurance and support for his unique talents. Otherwise he could become easily discouraged, trailing other children in the different stages of childhood development. Prince George is likely to benefit from taking part in water sports, gymnastics or being taught artistic crafts.

Pluto is Opposite Mars

Woe betide anyone who stands in the way of young Prince George. He may appear docile, but underneath he has an iron will. Those closest to Prince George recognise that he knows what he desires and is unlikely to let anyone or anything stand in his way. This trait can be seen at a very early age. Prince George doesn't like to be thwarted and has quite a temper. It is not always apparent and can erupt out of the blue. This presents quite a challenge for Prince George's parents, who need to teach him that tantrums and other manipulative forms of behaviour are not the way to achieve his goals. Prince George has to learn that getting his own way is not the most important thing in life. Co-operation and consideration are also valuable. Of course, the extent of Prince George's forceful manner does depend on other aspects of his birth chart. However, childhood development is likely to be strewn with some dramatic lessons. It is also vital that Prince George's parents, in particular his father, avoid physical punishment. Prince George responds adversely to force, and also needs to learn how to manage conflict as well as possible.

Conclusion

"When I was a boy of 14, my father was so ignorant I could hardly stand to have the old man around. But when I got to be 21, I was astonished at how much the old man had learned in seven years." -- Mark Twain "Bringing Up Father"

This report has been written from a child's point of view with the aim of helping parents and mentors better understand their youngsters. Of course, each person is ultimately responsible for their own actions, but the support that children get early in life goes a long way to helping them live rich and rewarding adult lives. Children need to be given the freedom to be their true selves rather than being forced to live up to parental expectations or to fulfill parents' own personal journeys. They need their parents to live their own lives to the full, joyously and responsibly. Above all children need love and support. What great gifts and what a challenging role for parents! It is the author's hope that this report may help in the process of childhood development, supporting both child and parent. My own father often quoted the above saying by Mark Twain. So I thought that I would share it in this report. My mother gave me many of the aforementioned gifts. I hope that these have shone through in the writing of this report.
